ABOUT The Prespa Lakes

the remote northwest corner of Greece, where the Greek border meets the borders of Albania and the FYROM , stand the Prespa Lakes. In fact the three borders meet in the middle of the larger of the two lakes, the Great Prespa or Megáli Présa, while the Mikrí Présa or Little Prespa Lake is divided between Greece and Albania.

Human visitors may have been restricted some years ago, but that has never applied to the wildlife, for the Prespa National Park is a vital European breeding ground for many species. Visitors must be sensitive to this at all times, and an educational visit to the Information Centre in the tiny village of Άγιος Germanós is the best way to start any trip here. It gives a great deal of information about the area in several languages, and provides leaflets and walking maps, as well as selling local produce and craft items.
